Summary

As a former businessman specializing in process innovation, I am determined to leverage my diversified experience and education to thrive in the tech industry. My present objective is to secure an entry-level IT opportunity where I will be able to demonstrate my technical aptitude and business acumen. I am seeking to join an organization that values innovation and will allow me to continue growing my data and cloud computing expertise. Some of my technical accomplishments include restoring and porting an old computer into a local web server with its own custom domain as well as building and deploying a MERN (MySQL, Express, React, Node) app on a third-party server.
